Toni

The storybox is a unique result of the collaboration between TONI Copenhagen and BIG Architects. It's a series of modular armatures with a clean, precise, og monolitisk design that complements its surroundings without overpowering them. Det ser ud til, at du bruger en forældet browser. The company's main product is the Toniebox, a cube-shaped digital audio device designed for children. Boxine GmbH was founded by Faßbender and Stahl in 2013 with backing from investors within their social network. They aimed to provide screen-free entertainment and avoid scratched CDs.[5] Marcus Stahl took over the technical development of the Toniebox, which later received backing from WDR and other investors.[6][7][8] The first Toniebox and 14 Tonies were launched in 2016, with the company receiving its first license from WDR. Initially, Faßbender and Stahl had to actively approach publishers for licenses, but by 2018, major entertainment companies started offering licenses on their own initiative. Tonies characters such as Bibi and Tina, Peppa Pig, PAW Patrol, Pippi Longstocking, Benjamin the Elephant, and Sesame Street were introduced. Sales increased annually, with a significant jump from 30,000 boxes in 2016 to 148,000 units in 2017. In 2020, Boxine's revenue exceeded €100 million between 2017 and 2020. Tonies' sales in the German-speaking areas grew by 4.6% in 2022, reaching €158.3 million.[15] The company received several design awards, including the Red Dot Design Award, German Design Award, and iF Product Design Award. In 2019, Boxine introduced the Tonie Clip, enabling existing toys to connect with the Toniebox. They also partnered with Playmobil, Disney, and later with Armira, Santo Venture Capital, and Zalando founder Robert Gentz for investment. The company expanded its sales to Great Britain, Ireland, the United States, France, and Hong Kong through partnerships with Jepsen Group. Tonies expands regional presence, enters Canadian market Since 2023, Boxine has been active in Canada. In June 2021, the company announced plans to go public with a Spac. A merger with a shell corporation allowed it to list on Frankfurt's Stock Exchange. The initial IPO generated €100m proceeds and subsequent capital increase raised an additional €60m. Tonies partnered with Disney for a commercial featuring its Toniebox and Disney characters. In May 2023, the group launched a story generator based on ChatGPT. Leibniz-Keks launched limited-edition biscuits featuring Creative Tonies in design. Tonies collaborated with Warner Bros. to expand its range of Tonies figures. Founders Faßbender and Stahl left the business in January 2024, and Tobias Wann took over as managing director. Tonies conducts its business from seven locations worldwide, including Germany and the UK. The company Schwäbisch Gmünd produces Tonies in various countries, including Tunisia and China, where the devices are manufactured. The Toniebox itself is produced in China and Hungary. According to recent news articles, Tonies has been expanding its presence globally, with sales reaching over 20 million units. In 2023, Tonies was awarded several design awards, including the Red Dot Design Award and the German Design Award. The company's innovative audio player and figures have made it a leader in the market. In addition to its success in Europe, Tonies has also expanded into Asia and Canada, with plans for further international expansion. Tonies' popularity can be attributed to its unique concept of using colorful characters and engaging stories to bring children's literature to life. The company has partnered with several well-known brands, including Playmobil and Disney, to offer a wide range of content for young audiences. In recent years, Tonies has experienced significant growth, with sales increasing by 37% in 2023. The company's founders have received numerous awards for their innovative approach to children's entertainment, including the Gründerpreis 2019. Tonies, a German company known for their audiobooks in the form of colorful, cube-shaped boxes, went public on the stock exchange in August 2021. The company, which was founded in 2017, has gained popularity among children and adults alike with its unique products. In recent years, Tonies has continued to expand its product line and partnerships. For example, they have collaborated with Disney to create a Christmas ad campaign, and their products are now available at various bookstores. Tonies has also been in the news for its innovative approach to storytelling, using AI-powered technology to generate audio content. Additionally, the company has released limited-edition versions of popular books, such as "Leibniz x Tonies," which combines classic literature with the company's signature style. The company's success has led to a significant increase in sales and recognition, including being featured in prominent publications like The Frankfurter Allgemeine Zeitung. Today, Tonies is a well-established brand, with its products available worldwide. Some interesting facts about the name Toni include that it originated from English names Antonia and Antoinette, and has become a popular first name for women as well as a last name for both adults and children.
